

[HELP] Posts Images html path incorrect!

Posted by netnuta - 2010/08/01 23:36

Hi there,

I had no problem with the previous version but with the new upgrade, once I post to my self hosted W/P blogs the image paths in the html view point to my local machine path like the example below:

The images are uploaded and show in my media library as normal.

Also am I missing something, but what is the point of the new wusiwyg editor as once you edit a selected feed with editor and post that feed the unedited version is posted, not the new edited version.

Cheers

netnuta

=====

Re: [HELP] Posts Images html path incorrect!

Posted by Carty - 2010/08/02 13:06

I'm aware of the incorrect image reference problem and will be fixing it in a couple of days.

Regarding the edited, previously there was a save button but now, the save happens when you select a different item. So after editing an item, don't directly press the post button but instead, select a different article and then press post button after selecting the same article again. I will fix this too (to auto save when post button is pressed) in the soon-to-be-released update.

Regards,
Carty..

=====