

[TIP] Ability to delete checked feed articles

Posted by Davidoff - 2010/08/07 18:38

Hi Nick, just starting to use it, I cannot yet give comprehensive feedback. But I notice: It would be crucial to be able to delete article feeds we have reviewed and realized they are for the bin.

Why? Because it seems I have to run through every individual article anyway - so badly and differently formatted they are on the source page. I fully appreciate that it's almost impossible for the software to figure out what "real" article content is. So I am visiting each article and review it with my human eye/mind. Now, of course, I'd need to be able to tell ABS "don't present me this sh.. article again please". ;-)

Not sure if you get what I mean? Maybe it's just that "pension" and "retirement" websites are generally sooo bad? ;-)

=====

Re: [TIP] Ability to delete checked feed articles

Posted by Carty - 2010/08/10 16:26

Of course you can delete the articles. Once you've selected an article, simply press the "Del" button on your keyboard. You can also multi-select articles and press 'Del' key.

Regards,
Carty..

=====

Re: [TIP] Ability to delete checked feed articles

Posted by Davidoff - 2010/08/10 18:34

No, that doesn't work, else I wouldn't have posted here.
Likewise, the import of articles doesn't get a single article posted. :-(

Anyway, don't bother with v1 problems now, you'll remember I bought your v2! - and you promised to figure out how I can get THAT to work. ;-)

Reminder: I installed v2 over v1, to retain my blogs and feeds, however it continues to open v1 - without any update possibility whatsoever.

Now, I am still waiting to hear how to get v2 to work, Carty?

=====

Re: [TIP] Ability to delete checked feed articles

Posted by Carty - 2010/08/13 08:06

Please open the software' install folder (C:Program FilesCartyStudios Corp.WebMag..)

Then open the file ABS Updater.

Tell me how it goes.

Regards,
Carty..

=====