

[Help] Your Own Domains Or Free Blogs

Posted by blueboy1 - 2010/04/02 16:25

Hi Carty

I like asking questions and the quick response from this forum is fantastic.

Just 2 questions

I Would you use your own domains or use free blogger wordpress blogs.

What is your linking strategy, i know you cannot just throw blogs up expecting to make thousands without some sort sort of linking..

If you can help

Paul

Paul,

It is any day better to use your own domain. It wont cost over 10 bucks and you could get .info ones for just 2 bucks. I recommend .com for long term benefits.

You can have any number of blogs on sub-domains and I suggest having not more than 10 per domain.

Why own domain? You have total control over them. Say you do all the work, start earning money and tomorrow it gets deleted.. That's why own domains are way better. For hosting, I recommend hostgator for hosting (affiliate link). Not just because I'm an affiliate, they're simply the best and they have some plans with unlimited domain name hosting.

If you don't have the money for hostgator, I can set you up on my hosting account for just $25 per year. Maybe you can later use the ip of mine to benefit in linking strategy.

Coming to the linking strategy, don't ever try them at the start. Google is brilliant. A ton of new sites linking to others, do you think they're valuable? Let your sites first index, start ranking and later think about linking.

I will come up with a good linking strategy later.

Regards,

Carty..

Hi Carty

Blogger blogs seem to take forever to get indexed,would you not bookmark the new blogs just to get it going maybe dig,propeller and rss the blog to feedage.com.

Or would you just completely leave the blog for a few weeks.

Regards

Paul

Yes, bookmarking helps them to get indexed quickly but you can also try posting the links in sig. Goto DP, you can have the blogs links there in sig. Make a few posts. Maybe even recommending my software :) Lol.. Have your sig in lot of places and keep changing the links to your new blogs as the old ones get indexed.

Carty..

Thanks for the tip, ziplack. I tried to register at identi.ca and had trouble: "Caphca did not match". I filled in all the blanks on the form, and don't see a captcha box to complete,so can't figure it out. Any suggestions? Thanks in advance.

The CAPTCHA might have not loaded on your connection and that is why you must have got the error. Maybe you could try again or I hope ziplack will post/attach some free backlink tool here.

Thanks in advance.

Carty..

Ziplack, I just tried Backlink Speed -- it's awesome! Do I also have to submit each blog post URL (I simply submitted the blog URL)? Thanks again.

This is excellent advice! Definitely agree letting sites get indexed first and gradually build back-links. Understandable everybody wants the money now - but patience pays. Spend impatience building more blogs, then go back to blog #1 after its indexed and start whatever new promotion tactic you have in your arsenal. Just my two cents..
