

House cleaning

Posted by nooyawka - 2010/09/05 03:24

---

Question:

I have a bunch of blogs listed in the lefthand column of the ABS software. The order in which they are listed is the order in which I happened to add them -- in other words, all jumbled up. Is there any way the list of blogs can be re-ordered into alphabetical order?

By the way, th software is fantastic. Now that I'm used to most of the kinks I am able to breeze through the steps and create very big fat and healthy blogs. It's a little too soon to say how profitable this will be (less than a month), but my bones tell me I'm doing the right thing and in a month or two I will be a very happy guy. Thanks, Carty,

=====

Re: House cleaning

Posted by Carty - 2010/09/07 08:28

---

Yes, they get listed in the order they were created. You can change the order manually by opening the file MyBlogs.txt from data folder present inside the software' install folder (C:\Program Files\CartyStudios Corp.WebMag..).

When you open the file, you can see the list of blogs and feeds (one per line) in the order you've added. Try changing the order there but make sure you take backups of this file before changing anything so you don;t get lost :)

Thank you very much for the comments on the software. I'm glad you've got used to it. Sure to see you making some big fat checks sooner :)

Regards,
Carty..

=====