

ABS and Adsense Channels

Posted by Pete - 2010/09/23 07:49

---

how do I set up a channel in adsense when using ABS?

or dies adsense just go to my account and so I have no way of knowing it came from any of my ABS blogs / sites.

Because when you make a blogger site, all you do ( as far as I can see) is put your adsense number in. No way of telling it which channel is set for it

=====

Re:ABS and Adsense Channels

Posted by Pete - 2010/09/24 02:04

---

any help with this??

Maybe there is a support system ( apart from an email address( which I still havent seen a reply to either)) that is better to get help with???

I am working with a group of 4 ( who bought this also, and 2 of them are seriously thinking of asking for money back.. they too have no responses to emails sent for help...

there must be a way to get answers to our questions....

=====

Re:ABS and Adsense Channels

Posted by Carty - 2010/09/24 19:29

---

Dear Pete,

Sorry about the slight delay in my response. The software does not add the adsense codes on its own and so there is no need to enter channel info anywhere.

It is better to create an ad block directly in your Adsense account area and add it to the blogger template and you can set the channels this way.

Please check my post on how to add Adsense to Blogger.

Regards,
Carty..

=====