

Autoblogger - stuck on taskbar

Posted by mychaelam - 2010/09/24 22:39

I have Autoblog Samurai. I am running under 64bit windows 7.

I created one Blog 2 days ago without a problem. Yesterday, I created a 2nd Blog, no problem. Today, when I tried to open ABS, the splash screen displays and than ABS minimizes to the Taskbar. It will not open when I click on the icon in the taskbar. I rebooted, and it did not help. I reinstalled(repair) and it still is not working. I clicked properties and checked "run in windows xp sp3" and it still will not open.

How can I get this to work again?

thanks

Mike

=====

Re:Autoblogger - stuck on taskbar

Posted by clementes - 2010/09/25 21:06

same problem here as well, cant get ABS to its feet, just sittin on my taskbar :(

=====

Re:Autoblogger - stuck on taskbar

Posted by zuhaimie - 2010/09/26 14:15

also same with me....plzzz,,

=====

Re:Autoblogger - stuck on taskbar

Posted by mychaelam - 2010/09/26 15:13

Here is an Update on my previous post:

I was able to get around the problem.

I navigated to the ABS folder and moved the folder called "Data" and its contents to a different temp folder.

I than uninstalled ABS and reinstalled it. I than moved the "Data" folder back to its original location.

It fixed the problem, ABS loaded and all my data previously entered was still in place.

=====

Re:Autoblogger - stuck on taskbar

Posted by tcsar757 - 2010/09/26 18:00

Thank You mychaelam i was gettin really pissed off and that helped

=====

Re:Autoblogger - stuck on taskbar

Posted by Carty - 2010/09/27 07:49

In the same folder (install folder), there will be a file called Settings.txt

Take a backup of this file too. Whenever you get this error, try replacing it from the backup and see if that helps. Saves time than a re-install :)

Regards,
Carty..

=====