

100's of Blogger Blogs - Is Promotion Possible ?

Hi Everyone,

Having recently invested in ABS after reading their sales pitch and watching their video where they state you can produce a blog in as little as 11 minutes and then going on to say you can produce 100's of blogs which will earn you £1 each per day etc ... presuming you have heard and read the same - whilst I know producing the blogs in large numbers is possible, is it really possible to get those new blogs all promoted and marketed ?

i.e. making money online of say £1 per day (or $1 a day) from each blog, surely the time and effort would need to be put in to get these blogs seen by the search engines and directories ?

In a nutshell, I'm simply wondering if there is enough time in the day to submit these new blogs, write articles, press releases etc ... the list goes on or is it okay to use something like RSSBot on each blog and leave it at that other than the automated posts via ABS ?

I've a few web sites and I struggle to keep up with the marketing of all of them, so I'm just wondering is the same level of promotion needed for each and every blog or will a quick RSSBot submission and regular auto posts via ABS do the trick ?

Cheers
Jane

Jane, you should not create all the blogs on one shot. Star with a few, say like 10 blogs, get them going and once they start earning, out source most of it and then begin your next batch.

Won't outsourcing cost quite a bit of money ?

Have you any ideas on how much you should pay for outsourcing your blogs SEO - say on a monthly basis ?

I've only ever done all the SEO and marketing myself, keeping a close eye on it so I haven't a clue where you'd start if you end up outsourcing ?

Thanks for the advice on how many blogs to start out with - how many blogs at most would you recommend not to go over per week ?

Thanks Carty ...

Out sourcing will not cost much if you do it effectively. I mean, you should begin your business with out sourcing.

You should first set a batch of blogs yourself, let them make money for you and later out source for increasing the revenue even further. Of course you should spend a shot lesser to out source than what you actually make from these blogs.

Say I end up making a $1 per day from each of say 25 blogs, when it comes to outsourcing, what percentage do you reckon I should be working on when it comes to outsourcing Carty ?

I know I'm not at that stage but I need to build a business plan and costings for the coming months.

I don't know where you would even start to look to outsource - any suggestions ?

And when you do outsource, do you do it per blog, per 10 blogs, do you allow so much for each $1 you earn ?

I actually work in £'s sterling so should I be looking to spend say 25p or 50p to get back £1 ?

My rule is to start out sourcing when your blog makes a combined income of $500 a month at least. Say you spend $250 a month for a person to maintain your blog network, you would have a net profit of $250..

Also, for beginners, I would suggest you can out source blog creation.. You can hire a person to build some blogs for you or probably buy packages and set it up yourself. Do this only if you have some money to invest. Else, build them yourself and later outsource when they make money.
