

PROBLEM: Scheduling stopped working

Posted by Syzygy999 - 2010/12/18 03:29

The scheduling feature in ABS has suddenly stopped working for me.

All my feeds are currently set up to post "per schedule." The publishing schedule for my blogs is currently set at 180 to 320 minutes apart. This has worked until today.

Now, whenever I (for example) select 5 posts from a feed, and click the button to publish them "per schedule," all 5 of them get published immediately. In other words, they all go live at the same moment. This is not good.

I'm really puzzled as this has not happened before in the almost 3 weeks that I have owned ABS. I hope someone can help me soon. The scheduling feature of ABS is one of the most important aspects of it to me.

As of a little while ago, the program's scheduling feature was again working for me. Will keep my fingers crossed.

Still hoping Carty may be able to come on here and address this issue, and let us know if this is something that has happened before or might happen again.

Steve, initially you might have tested out different things and might screwed the schedule. Now that everything is working fine, let me know if it fails again. I don't anticipate it either :)

Carty..
