

Post Templates and ABS (in Blogger)

Posted by consortium - 2011/01/27 09:27

I wonder if anyone can help?

I am trying to get all my posts justified. I have set up a post template in blogger under the setting/formatting heading which works fine when I manually post to the blog. However when using ABS it completely ignores the post template. Neither is there the option to justify the text when editing the post in ABS so I can't even do it manually.

Any advice?

Thanks!

Can you give us an example post template you use with Blogger?

Thanks, Carty, for answering.

This is what I have:

It works for manual posting but not for ABS.

Where do you have this entered?

It's in Setting/Formatting in the Post Template box at the bottom of the page.

You have to enter the content tag in middle. Example:

{post-content}

Then tell me if it goes well.

Should 'post-content' be wrapped around { } or .

Thanks.

Check the Post Template field in the advanced setting tab while adding a feed. You will already have the tag {post-content} or {article-content}. Put your justification codes around these.
