

HELP - My Post Time Schedule going haywire

Posted by ejunkie - 2011/07/05 10:17

Hi seniors,

I am a newbie, and have just started using ABS for a few weeks now.

Of late i have noticed that my POST TIME (in my EDIT panel) for my posts have been erratic.

For instance, if i POST TIME my post for, say, today as 07/05/2011, and post it then in my WP dashboard the post timings appear not as i timed it. In my WP it shows random figures like 11/08/2034 ... seriously 2034 ... i know :)

Can anyone please help me to fix this as it adds another layer of work for me. After posting from ABS, i then have to go to my WP Admin to again correct the POST timings.

Also could you please go to my new site that i am trying out the ABS for, and be kind enough to point out what i am doing wrong or how can i improve it better? Here it is www.allaboutandroid.in

Looking forward to tips from veterans that a newbie like me can make use of.

Thank you in advance.

Hey Carty,

Same here for me, I run this as a business and your auto blogging software has become unreliable, same problem for me since you released the last update, the scheduler is not scheduling the posts as per the settings within each blog account. I've checked it a number of times and I still have to go in and manually change the schedule. I've set the schedule to post between 1 day and 2 days, when I check each blog, the posts are scheduled 4 to 5 days out.

Now this program is not doing what it says and I'm about to write an review and release it over my blog network, I need this fixed or at least a response from you on what we can do to fix this issue, I paid you good money to have a software program that does what you say it does. I was very happy with it until the last update, since then it's become unreliable.

I look forward to a response or I'm happy to have a refund!!!

this issue was raised weeks ago, and still no usefull responce from Carty, in fact the previous thread has been deleted!! lets see what happens to this one???

I have been able to resolve this issue by following carty`s instructions in the following thread

Hi, my problem was solved. I emailed to Nick and he pointed out my error.

My stupid PC always throws up random time & date whenever i start & boot it... and hence the timing prob in my case.

I did a reset and seems to be working fine. The post time is now ok.

Just check whether your system is doing something like that.

Also, if you have a prob, send an email to Nick.... i have found that way you get a faster response.

Hope you solve your issue fast.

Regards
Willy

Try setting it to UTC (0.0 hrs) and then re-add the blog to the software probably with a different name and tell me if it works fine.

Carty..

Hi Carty,

Just updated the software to the latest version, checked the time on both blogs and computer, all correct and synchronized and then schedule a new post, guess what, they were scheduled for 10th October??? today is the 21st September, so tell me why this is??

So how are we going to FIX this issue, I have 90 blogs attached to this software, I cannot and will not reload everyone of them.

You have been asked to fix this issue on numerous occasions, so there is obviously an issue.

Can you try setting it to UTC +0.0 hrs. Once done, edit and save the blog or re-add the blog on a different name probably and make some posts to see if they get posted properly.

Carty..

Hi Carty,

Tried that, the posts are published immediately regardless of what time period is set in the admin section. I set it twice, to post within 1 day to 2 days and again at 60 mins and 24hrs, it ignored my settings and posted straight away.

Regards

Mike

I was hoping that with the latest update and the fact that you have added new features that you might have fixed this, but no, still does not work. WHY??????

Am facing the same problem :(

When will this be fixed?

The issue was fixed long ago. Please check your blog' wp-admin, General Settings section and set the time zone to +0.0 Hrs UTC.

Then in the software, right click on the blog name, select edit and save. This should update in the software.

Tell me how it goes then.

Regards,
Carty..

Hi Carty,

Sorry but this is not fixed, the fix you mention results in the posts being posted straight away and also affects the timing, we are 10 hours ahead and setting the time you suggest on the blog affects all posts.

The system worked fine up until the software update several months ago when this was first raised.

Also I've requested a new registration key as I needed to reload the software on my computer and it no longer works, I requested the new key over a week ago and have heard nothing, so now I have a useless piece of software that is unreliable and not able to be used.
