

How should I set this up?

Posted by kyhawk - 2011/07/25 23:57

I have a "main" domain.

I just want posts to it to make sure it gets googles attention every so often.

The main blog is <http://www.jacksonvillepodiatrist.org/> which I want to "lease" to a podiatrist...foot doctor here in town.

I want my posts from abs to show at another page that is the blog.

<http://www.jacksonvillepodiatrist.org/podiatrist-blog/>

Whatever I have tried I have failed and failed over and over..

I thought I should have set up like this..

Step one..

put in user and pw

<http://screencast.com/t/l3UKqqcgz>

pick feeds

<http://screencast.com/t/GODboidCcy58>

this is my mistake..no category..so no posts

<http://screencast.com/t/3ZAMXZX4u>

no sure how to set up category

<http://screencast.com/t/iU2FGaJvHGV>

no posts showing.

<http://screencast.com/t/77aXwtCl>

thanks for any help in advance

I know I need to set up category..but I need it on another page..my blogger page..not main page...my landing page.

=====

Re: How should I set this up?

Posted by Carty - 2011/07/28 16:02

You can add categories from your WordPress admin area. Once you've added the categories, you need to let the software refresh the category list by editing the blog (right click on the blog name at the left pane and choose edit) and then saving it.

Regards,

Carty..

=====