

trouble getting feed

Posted by hobro - 2010/04/27 04:15

I am trying to get a feed for my blog and I never seem to get the feed. I input everything, determine that the feed has content - or looks like it contains content. check no for translation, it says congratulations that i found a good feed, enter the blog site i want to put it on and then it doesn't do anything and then the "trying to read content...." note appears and then nothing. Am i trying to pull a feed from a non RSS url?

=====

Re: trouble getting feed

Posted by Carty - 2010/04/28 10:16

Looks like with the latest update some people could not get the Finish button light up after choosing all the settings. Can you please email me: Owner CartyStudios.com

Regards,
Carty..

=====

Re: trouble getting feed

Posted by Katie - 2010/05/15 06:09

I notice that the finish button won't light up if I try to choose a category. If I leave it as "uncategorized" then it works fine, and I can edit the feed after that to identify the category. Is there another way around this? It is strange to have to remember to not categorize and then to remember to go back in and categorize.

I understand you are working on a revision to allow a separate category for each post - will that make this work better? thanks

=====

Re: trouble getting feed

Posted by Carty - 2010/05/15 09:41

Try this on your next blog: Before adding it to the software, rename the 'Uncategorized' to some other name such as 'General' and then try adding to the software. Tell me how it goes.

Regards,
Carty..

=====