

Search Term to Automated Page Result?

Posted by myniche - 2010/03/19 20:47

Does the AUTOBLOG software have a search function where a visitor can search for something and then the AUTOBLOG will create a page for that search term/keyword?

This would be a great benefit for me as I was hoping that this software would have a method to create new pages on the fly!

Let me know if this is possible somehow.

Thanks,
Brian

Dear Brian,

Actually I haven't included that feature which you would typically find in other auto blogging tools because many time it results in junk being posted to your blog which is easy for Google to determine your blog as an automated one.

However, I do have plans to implement this feature by searching article directories and videos for the keywords you specify. But before that, I want to get the PLR import feature ready.

Regards,
Carty..

Carty,
The PLR import function would be great! I have a lot of them on my haddisk gathering dusk.
