

"original article" link takes visitor off my site

Posted by cybarton - 2010/05/12 11:02

Hi there

Just got the software. Trying to figure out how to configure it so that:

1. If I include a link back to the original article it doesn't just leave my site. Isn't there a way to make that link open in a new tab/browser window?
2. is there a setting to post the full article on my site (or is the only way not to include a link to original article?)

Cheers.

Chris

Dear Chris,

Thank you again for the purchase. Actually the link back open in new windows only as I included the target=_blank option to those links in my latest version. Did you check with some links on your blog?

Of course the full articles are posted. If you were talking about the "read more" type of links breaking your articles, it is a setting in your WordPress. Maybe you could email me a link to your blog and I will check it out for you.

Regards,
Carty..

Carty,

I just tried this with what i think is the latest version and the 'view the origingle article' link opens in the same window, can you check?

Ok, I think only 'nofollow' attribute was added. I will update it in my next version. Thanks for the notification.

Carty..
