

ftp servers

Posted by Blake49 - 2010/05/18 01:06

I am a complete newbie to ftp servers. Can you give me more info on what I need to do to use this feature?

=====

Re: ftp servers

Posted by Carty - 2010/05/18 07:06

Sure, do you have a hosting account already with cPanel access on it?

Regards,
Carty..

=====

Re: ftp servers

Posted by Blake49 - 2010/05/19 02:40

yes I have a new account at hostgator. In that account there is a file for public_html and public_ftp am I putting a file in the public ftp folder or am I just putting a image folder in the public_html folder

=====

Re: ftp servers

Posted by Carty - 2010/05/21 16:10

Login to the cPanel of your hostgator account. You can see a lot of options there. Select FTP there and you can create a new account under some folders like public_html/images or so. Create the account and then you can use it.

Regards,
Carty..

=====

Re:ftp servers

Posted by Maro - 2010/08/02 08:45

Hey Guys,

sorry to bring such an old thread up again but i don't want to open a new one for the exact same topic.

As the guy above i got an Hostgator Acc and created a new Ftp account as well as an directory via Filezila.

So how do i insert it correctly in the software?

Server should be: ftp.yourdomain.com

Account: My new FTP Account

Path to the images (Sry i'm at work and cant remember how the box was named):

www.mydomain.com/image_directory (which i determined while creating the ftp acc)

Is that right? At the moment he refuses to add any pictures :(

=====

Re:ftp servers

Posted by Carty - 2010/08/02 13:12

With the above setting, when you login to your FTP account in a FTP software like Filezilla, does it directly login to your images directory?

If yes, does the software upload the images to this folder? Check the folder after making some posts and tell me.

Regards,
Carty..

=====

Re:ftp servers

Posted by Maro - 2010/08/02 15:29

Thanks for your response Carty.

When i use the Login above in Filezilla, he throws me in the main folder, where he also saves the images but he didnt post them on my blog :S

=====

Re:ftp servers

Posted by Carty - 2010/08/02 20:14

In the software you have to set the images path/folder as the main domain name as that is where the images are being uploaded.

In case if you wish to use the images folder, create an FTP account that directly puts you inside the images folder.

Regards,
Carty..

=====