:S Hi! My name is Kaye and I just recently joined the ABS group. From the sounds of it I am not alone with feeling that the so called support, really sucks. Normally I am quiet about saying anything... however, I have requested help, answers and even have reported a broken link.. from the response you could tell they had no clue of what I was talking about and responded with something from the manual. As to the response I did get, it was no better than what I found out on my own. Needless to say, I am feeling frustrated and decided that perhaps I could learn more here, in the forum. (On the upside..they did eventually respond.)

Looking forward to getting some answers.. :)
